

Dr. Masa Iwanaga is President and CEO of Japan International Research Center for Agricultural Sciences (JIRCAS), a National Research and Development Agency under the auspices of the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and the Fisheries (MAFF), Japan. JIRCAS carries out various collaborative research projects in the field of agriculture, forestry and fisheries with more than 30 countries, mostly from developing regions. Dr. Iwanaga has always shown great concern for political, social and technological issues influencing international agricultural research and development for food security. He holds a Ph.D. degree in Plant Breeding and Genetics from the University of Wisconsin, USA.

Dr. Iwanaga had spent 27 years working for the following international research centers of CGIAR: International Potato Center (CIP) in Peru, International Center for Tropical Agriculture (CIAT) in Colombia, International Plant Genetic Resources Institute (IPGRI, now renamed Bioversity International in Italy), and International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center (CIMMYT) in Mexico. He was the Director General of CIMMYT from 2002 to 2008 and the Deputy Director General of IPGRI from 1992 to 2000. He also served as a member of the Steering Committee of the High-Level Panel of Experts (HLPE) of the United Nations' Committee on World Food Security (CFS) from 2013 to 2015. He was Chair of the Program Committee of the Board of Trustees of Africa Rice Center (AfricaRice) until April 2017.

Dr. Iwanaga concurrently holds positions with the following international organizations/functions:

- (1) Vice-Chair, Board of Directors of World Vegetable Center (AVRDC)
- (2) Representative of Japan to the G20 Meeting of Agricultural Chief Scientists (MACS)
- (3) Chair of Global Research Alliance on Agricultural Greenhouse Gases (GRA)
- (4) Member of Advisory Panel on Science and Technology Diplomacy of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, JAPAN
- (5) Member of Steering Committee of SATREPS (JICA-JST) on Global Issues
- (6) Member of Administrative Council, Kyoto University
- (7) Member of International Research Advisory Panel (IRAP) of King Mongkut's University of Technology Thonburi (Thailand)